THE BRACKMAN-KER CUP

There seems to be some little discussion current regarding the conditions under which the Brackman-Ker Trophy was presented.

The Conditions

1. The winners to give a bond in the sum of $200 with sufficient sureties for the return of the cup in good condition when required by the Trustees.

2. Each winning team must have at their own cost engraved on a silver shield fixed on the cup for that purpose the name of the team and the year in which the cup was won.

3. The Cup is to be called the Brackman-Ker Hockey Cup and to remain in competition from year to year.

4. Should one of the trustees resign or otherwise refuse to act, the remaining trustees and donors shall nominate and appoint a substitute who shall have the same power as if he had been originally appointed.

Challenges and Matches

5. All challenges shall be made in writing in duplicate, one copy of which shall be sent to delivered to the trustees and the other to the challenged club.

6. Challenges from clubs shall be recognized from all amateur senior clubs of Alberta and in the order received.

7. When a challenge is accepted the trustees desiring the two competing teams to arrange by mutual agreement all terms of the contest such as choice of date, rink, selection of officials, etc. The trustees not wishing to interfere in any way it can be avoided.

8. All games to be played on home ice.

9. The visiting team to receive 50 per cent of the gross gate of each game.

A. Each team to pay half the advertising.

B. Should the holders of the cup not be able to make such arrangements with the rink management, the trustees may demand the games to be played on any other rink they may deem advisable. The trustees' decision is final.

10. The Cup to be awarded to the team winning 3 out of 5 games.

(a) The trustees change the above condition No. 10, to the result of one or more games as circumstances may require.

11. No second challenge will be recognized in any one season from the same club or association.

12. No person shall be allowed to play on a team unless he has been a bona-fide resident of the town for which he plays for at least 30 days immediately preceding the game.

(a) In case of any doubt as to the qualifications of any member or members of any competing team the trustees decision to be final.

(b) The trustees determine from the captain or any member or members of the competing team a sworn declaration as to the qualifications of any of all members of such teams.

13. Any team wishing to protest can do so by making their protest to one of the trustees not later than 24 hours after the game has been played.

Any team entering a protest must deposit the sum of $25 with the trustees.

(a) If the protest is upheld the money will be refunded, otherwise the money will be given to some charitable institution.

14. In the event of the competing clubs failing to agree on officials, the trustees shall decide the matter.

15. Any expenses incurred by reason of the appointment of any officials by the trustees shall be paid and borne by the two competing clubs in equal shares.

16. The trustees of the cup to consist of the Premier of Alberta and the mayors of Strathcona and Edmonton.

17. Any of the above if found unsatisfactory, may be amended or changed by majority of a meeting of the trustees, donors, and the captain of the cup holders.

18. The cup is donated by the Brackman-Ker Milling Co. to the Strathcona Hockey Club, who are the holders for the first year.

GREAT WAS RILEY THE HAYSEED

Cap. Anson Claims That This Man Could Hit Harder Than Lajoie or Delehanty.

(W. A. Phelon)

"I saw all the great batsmen come and go," remarks good old Uncle Anson. "I saw Browning and Tip O'Neill perform, and I was still in the game when Delehanty was at his best and Lajoie was beginning his career. Grand batters and incomparable sluggers were prevalent twenty years back, and the game was full of long distance biffers. Who was the best of them all? I really couldn't make a choice—there were eight or nine between whom it was almost impossible to choose.

"I saw a farmer, once however—a raw, rank amateur, who never played a professional game in all his life, and I want to say that this farmer ranked up with Browns, Browning, Orr, and Delehanty. Had he been put into the game when he was young, I think he would have gone down in history as one of the grandest batsmen that ever lived—perhaps, with professional experience and training, he would have been unequalled boss of all sluggers.

"This farmer's name was Riley and he lived in a little village about 30 miles west of Chicago. Along about 1880, the suburban villages of that section organized a little league team. Rules and regulations, in these days, were very slack, and professional players were continually slipping away from their teams for a day or two and gathering easy money from the semi-pros. As far as Riley was concerned, I didn't mind letting a man off now and then, and quite frequently gave permission to a pitcher or catcher to slide out and get the con.

"One afternoon a suburban delegation came to me and respectfully asked the loan of Bishop, a clever young pitcher who had recently joined the Colts. They explained that they were wild to beat another suburban team, which was the champion club of the whole region, and made especially strong by the presence of one Riley, a slugger who had killed off all the pitchers they could raise by hand, leg, or borrow.

OFFERS $15,000 FOR JACKSON

But Cleveland Star Outfielder is Not For Sale—Murphy Tries to Strengthen the Club.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—President Somers of Cleveland refused $15,000 for Outfielder Joe Jackson and $5,000 for Pitcher Vean Gregg. The offer for Jackson came from Harry Murphy, owner of the Cubs. Murphy is in earnest in his efforts to build up another championship team for the West Side park and said he would give $10,000 for Jackson and an addition $5,000 to the man who would arrange the deal.

When the offer was repeated to Somers he absolutely refused to consider either $10,000 or $15,000 for Jackson's release.

"We are trying to build up a ball club, not tear it down," he said. "Fifteen thousand dollars would look very sweet, but where could we play the money?"

The offer for Gregg came from Joseph P. Cohn, owner of the Spokane Club of the Pacific Northwest League. Cohn is the man who "discovered" Gregg while pitching for an amateur team at Lewiston, near Spokane, and later sold him to Cleveland for $4,000.

When Gregg was hit in the leg very hard by a line drive from Cleveland's Naps last spring, Cleveland turned him over to Portland, where his pitching has been the sensation of the country. In fact, Cohn and other managers here from the coast are unanimous in saying he is the greatest southpaw in the league today.

Cohn is thought to be acting for Charley Murphy, as the latter admitted he would like to get the big southpaw from Cleveland.

INDOOR CONTEST TONIGHT

Y. M. C. A. Handball Assemblies Will Have a Busy Evening

The third indoor athletic contest will be held at the Y. M. C. A. this evening, the events for competition being the fence vault, 50 yard dash, 100 yard dash, and the 100 yard dash.

The prize race, as provided for in the Y. M. C. A. rules, is differently arranged from the one generally known as Edmonton. Instead of placing the "members" in different intervals in front of the line, each to be retrieved in turn, two boxes are used, and three competitors.

Physical Instructor Valentine says that the 50 yard dash race is rather hard, but he is saying up in the 100 yard race, a real bit-bill for the competition.

John Cameron leads the percentage table now, with N. G. White a close second.

Tonight's events may shake up the standing again.

TIGERS ARE NOW IN EARNEST

Sep. Dumoulin is Drilling the Back Division With Dave McKeand Watching Wings

Hamilton, Nov. 23.—Dave McKeand, the former Tiger captain, and one of the greatest inside wings who ever donned a Rugby suit, has been moved back to Hamilton by the Bank of Hamilton, and arrived in town last evening. He immediately interested himself in the Rugby situation, and consented to come out and assist Coach Du Moulin.

McKeand is rounding up a fourteen composed of old-timers like himself. Among them are Al Marshall, Tony and others, and this team will work out against the Tigers for four nights next week, giving Du Moulin an opportunity to round off the machine that he is rapidly building up. Sep has had charge for three nights now, and in the time has worked wonders with the outfit. He has all the players filled with an aggressiveness and vim that was a silent quality a week ago and those who have seen the team in action this year would hardly recognize the outfit as a result. Al Smith is playing wonderful ball, and has earned his place at full back against Varsity, while Marshall has developed into such a nice line backer that he is expected to prove a big factor in the Tiger success on the 26th.

Seats for 4,000 people will be erected at the cricket field. It is hardly likely that more than 4,000 people will attend the game. The local record is 5,000, and while this may be exceeded to some extent, it is hardly likely that Toronto will contribute the 4,000 expected. The new stands will be finished by building Inspector Anderson says as they are erected.

It was heard out that the new stands would contribute $200 per game, and that fully 4,000 would come from Toronto, including many soldiers. As the stands are really erected at the cricket and are good for 5,000 seats, it was decided throughout the cricket and basketball all around the south end of the field and at each end of the east and west stands. If more than this number are on hand there will be standing room for another 1,000 at the north end of the field.

A GREAT RECORD

As professional hockey has had a R. I. P. sign placed over it for a year or so in Edmonton, it besides us to keep green in our memories the mighty deeds of former teams.

The season of 1908-9 was without doubt the most successful in the history of Edmonton. That was the season the locals played Montreal Wanderers for the Stanley Cup, winning one game 8-7, but losing the first by 3-7.

The record for 1908-9: Dec. 10—Edmonton at Seattle, 6-4.

The Greatest Opportunity Ever Presented to the Investing Public of Edmonton

A glance at the key plan below will show that Munson Addition is a bona fide proposition. The C.N.R. Townsite is within one block of this property and their prices range from $700 to $1,500. Compare these with ours!

Munson is the Divisional Point on the Vegreville to Calgary extension as well as being the Junction of the Goose Lake extension from Saskatoon. The third line of the C.N.R. from Regina to Calgary will cross the Red Deer line at this point also. This will make Munson the greatest railway centre of all the new towns on the different lines of railway.

Munson is right in the heart of one of the best Agricultural Districts in the Province. Every quarter section for miles around is homesteaded and there is no land for the speculators or large corporations to acquire, thereby retarding the development of the country and consequently the growth of the town as has been the case at other points.

Munson has two Banks, two Drug Stores, six General Stores, three Lumber Yards, two Livery barns, two restaurants, and two Hotels under course of construction. We will offer Munson addition for sale on Monday, the 21st instant. Sale opens at 10 o'clock a.m. Prices from $75.00 up. Terms 1-4 Cash, Balance in 6, 12 and 18 months. Don't hesitate! A POSSIBLE SERVICE TO EDMONTON

Just to ride over a dull season it is suggested that the young Liberal club invite Frank Oliver to come to the city and deliver an address on the great resources of the boundless north. Owing to his recent trip via the great waterways of the north to the scene of the late Guggenheim litigation in the Yukon, the Minister of the Interior should be thoroughly posted on the subject. In fact, he would merely need to refurbish a few of the interviews given in canned form to eastern papers since his return in order to make a very fair speech.

Just at the present time, when there seems to be a good deal of doubt in the minds of some of the members of the legislature and of the government as to the possibilities of the north, a few words from Frank Oliver along the lines that he has been following for years in advertisement of the country's known wealth would not be amiss.

No doubt Mr. Oliver would be charmed to step into the breach and inform the doubtful ones that the north country is not a barren wilderness, as some seem to believe, but is, as he has so consistently maintained, a land of enormous possibilities. Some such declaration would be of great value to the city of Edmonton at the present time, especially on account of the fact that it might help to convince some of the southern members, who are apparently not any too well posted, on the necessity of a railway from Edmonton to the navigable stretch of waterways two hundred and fifty miles north.

SOMETHING WRONG WITH THE SYSTEM

There is something fundamentally wrong with the system under which railways are chartered in Canada.

Take the case in point of the Canadian Northern Western. In this instance a railway company with all the money necessary to carry out the construction, all the plans ready to go on with the work, contract already let and construction under way, is compelled to come to the legislature of Alberta for power to build because the necessary powers cannot be had at Ottawa.

The Canadian Northern Western is projected to open a country north west of Edmonton in which there are now no railways at all. The Ottawa answer is that the C. N. W. will parallel a line which has already been chartered.

The Canadian Northern Western is designed to use a pass in the mountains which will give it one of the easiest grades across the great divide. The Ottawa answer is that that pass has already been granted to another company.

The Canadian Northern Western is destined to connect the prairies with the Pacific at Stewart on the Portland Canal. The Ottawa answer is that this will cut off the northern trade from Prince Rupert.

The whole thing looks one-sided and unfair. If the road which the Ottawa government favors is ready to build, let it have all the powers necessary that it may proceed at once to build. But why should another company which is already building be compelled to seek provincial legislation in order to get the same rights?

If the Pine Pass will not hold the C. N. W. and the G. T. P.'s Omnica branch, why not let the two roads make a race for the same as would be required in the case of competitors in any other business enterprise?

If Stewart is a better location from which to handle the northern trade, that looks like a pretty good reason why permission should be granted at once to anyone who is willing to build a road.

The spectacle of one government holding up one road which is ready to build for the benefit of another which is not, makes it look as though there are some things about the system of granting charters which require adjustment.

Incidentally, the failure to grant a charter at Ottawa for the Canadian Northern Western not only delays the day when Edmonton will have another outlet to the Pacific, but also helps to complicate the situation in Alberta, already sufficiently complicated by railway questions which are exclusively Albertan.

THE MOVING PICTURE CENSORSHIP

Is there not a good deal of foolishness about all this fuss over a moving picture censorship?

With all due deference to the kind and loving ladies who would have thunder scenes suppressed, is not the danger to the child mind considerably over-estimated?

There are no moving picture houses in Edmonton today, nor ever have been, putting on lewd pictures, and if there were there are already statutes under which they could be reached. If there is no lewdness, can a thrilling animated picture of some dastardly Indian slayer or pseudo Sherlock Holmes really do much harm?

To put the question in another way, how many virile, masculine dynamic men are there in the community today who have, at the hours of their youth playing hockey from school and passing on tales of the adventures of "Dick Denslow," "Old Sleuth," and "Int Eyed Bob the Italy of the Prairies"? Take a census of the city council, the legislature and the board of trade and if the members are candid they will probably be unanimous in admitting that in their bare foot days they used to trade nickel libraries and that they hid them down at the tannery dock or in a hollow log at the swimming hole for fear some of the elders of the family would find them out. With feelings in which meriment over their unsophisticated childhood misadventures with a tinge of regret that those good old boyhood days have gone never to return, they will probably recollect that after all the yellow-covered thrillers had something to do with cultivating a taste for literature, and that it required only the progress of the years and the development of the child mind into the discernment of advancing youth to graduate them into a different course of reading.

Just so with the picture show. As Shakespeare says, "The play's the thing" but to take a ten-year-old to see Ibsen's "Ghosts" or Barnhart in Rostand's "L'Aiglon" would be merely to waste the gate money and spoil the evening for the child.

If the boy is any good, the thrillers on the screen of the moving picture house will not warp his view of life permanently, and he will see a whole lot of other things at the same time which will help along that broad comprehension of the affairs of the world which after all constitutes the real education.

If the moving pictures spoil the boy, the city council is wasting its time trying to save him by the appointment of a censor. That kind of boy generally finds the route to spoliation anyway, and the greater the handicaps the greater the speed.

THE CALGARY VIEW.

(Calgary Alberta.)
The Edmonton newspapers favoring the construction of the road from Edmonton to Fort McMurray are making some extremely reckless statements about the need of that road. They say that every person in Alberta wants the road built, and no person objected to the building of it, though they did object to the contract the late government entered into with the A. & G. W. company.

The Edmonton newspapers are wrong. The majority of the people do not favor the construction of the road at the present time. With the limited information which the government has about the country, very few uninterested people of the province would have the road built. There is much greater need of developing the parts of the province already settled, and which are sadly in need of roads. When these districts are provided with roads and good highways, and have the advantage of telephones and such like, more information may be gained of that northern country. If that information is satisfactory, and every person hopes that it will be, a speedy extension of the road through that district could be taken up seriously by the province. But the province needs a headlong into that wild and reckless A. & G. W. scheme, and it is not likely to make another mistake of that kind.

(Chicago Tribune)
No sooner does a woman become successful in business than man jealously steps in and spoils her career. The latest woman to have her life blasted is Mrs. Strula of New York, who between June, 1906, and October, 1909, made $250,000. She told neither did she spin, and yet she wrung that large amount from unwilling corporations by slipping on banana peels.

Dressed plainly in black and carrying a small handbag, she would enter a street car, a railroad train, or a ferryboat. Unseen by other passengers she would take from her bag a banana peel, throw it upon the floor, and slip, or appear to slip, on it. Result: agonizing cries and swift carriage to her home. Seventeen times she slipped and fell because of the alleged sudden starting of the car. In only four instances did she fail to shake down something from the corporations. In the other cases she received from $50 to $1,000 each.

Now what promise to be a profitable business has gone to smash and Mrs. Strula has been added to the long victim list of jealous man.

THE OLD GUARD

(Ottawa Free Press)
The "re-organization" of the Conservative party whips, announced yesterday, is but a fulfillment of the promise made to the party caucus last year, that the Opposition had determined to get rid of the dead wood and to substitute live men therefor. And so it has happened that Mr. Borden will meet his party to-morrow night with a new whip and a new party organization.

But the thing which is interesting the observers on the Hill is how the Old Guard will take this summary dismissal of their services. No one on the Opposition side can calculate the events of the session without taking into account the leader of the Old Guard, Hon. George E. Foster, who has "come back" full of vigor, and is to retain his seat alongside the party leader, but as he has been formally detached from the post of chief lieutenant in favor of Judge Doherty, he will naturally have to play a sort of a lone hand.

Then there is ex-Whip George Taylor. He has had control of the parliament for years, and he too has "come back" full of vigor. How he will like the situation of being sidetracked by Mr. G. E. Foster is another problem.

Another stepson of the Old Guard who has been ignored in the re-organization is Hon. John Haggart, who was Postmaster-General and Minister of Railways in the Conservative government from 1886 to 1888. He is now practically, if not actually, the oldest continuous member of the House of Commons, and those who know him state that he feels keenly the intimation of his leader that he has reached the stage of a "has been."

It used to be said of the Old Guard of Napoleon "The Old Guard may die, but it never surrenders." The motto has been changed by Mr. Borden to "The Old Guard has served its usefulness. We must have new blood."

And it will be interesting to see how the Old Guard takes it.

CHEAPER MEAT, CATCH VOTES

Socialist Cry of Famine Makes German Government Act.

Berlin, Nov. 22.—It was unofficially announced today that the Imperial Government contemplated the early opening of the frontiers for the importation of foreign live stock in order to counteract the high prices for meat prevailing.

However, the sanitary restrictions will be maintained in so far that all animals imported must be immediately slaughtered.

The yielding disposition of the Government is derided as due to the fact that the Socialists evidently are profiting from the present agitation over the famine prices for meat. The Government finds it advisable to take the wind out of the Socialists' sails before the general elections to the Reichstag, by cheapening the meat supply.

CORRESPONDENCE

To the Editor of The Capital—

This appeared in this week's issue of Le Progres, a paper published in this town, in the French language, an item under the heading "M. Boudreau, Pourquoi?" translated meaning "Questions for Mr. Boudreau."

The questions, as a rule, are such as a school boy might ask, and do not appear of such weight as the publisher of Le Progres evidently placed upon them, when he gave them a very prominent place on the front page of his paper. I might state in passing, that the publisher referred to was defeated in this district in the last provincial elections, by Mr. Boudreau.

The one question indicating the feeling of Romulus Morin, over whose signature, it appears, questions Mr. Boudreau as to why he recommended the appointment of an English speaking Justice of the Peace for this town, in preference to a Frenchman. Morin, in his anxiety to place Mr. Boudreau in the light of one favoring the English speaking population, neglected to state that there was and still is, two French speaking Justices of the Peace, in this town, that a third justice should be an English speaking one is only fair, and bears further testimony to the fair and broad mind of our local member, Mr. Boudreau, indicating his ability to represent both English and French speaking people fairly in The Provincial Legislature of Alberta. Morin, evidently forgets that he is at the present time, earning his livelihood in the British, English speaking colony. The publisher of the French paper referred to, certainly does small credit to himself by endeavoring to stir racial feelings in his province, and the display of such questions as are asked by this man Morin.

Yours truly,
M. J. FRANCIS.

CALF HAD TASTE FOR MONEY

Devoured $118 in Bills, Chews Upon a Silver Quarter and Undergoes Operation.

Spartanburg, S. C., Nov. 22.—While going milking, Mrs. Luther Colwell, who lives in Clinton, dropped a pocket-book containing five twenty dollar bills, a ten and a five and three ones, besides a silver quarter. The money was missed an hour later and thorough search disclosed the quarter, which showed signs of having been chewed upon by a calf.

A young heifer in the yard had a gully look and a veterinary surgeon was summoned. The roll was extracted from the stomach of the calf in a badly mutilated condition. The bills were taken to a local bank cashier, who sent them to Washington to be redeemed.

What Camrose Offers to the Shrewd Investor

RAILWAY FACILITIES—Camrose is not a way station, but a great railway centre; the three railways did not come to Camrose as an incident in the cross country building. No; it was the UNEQUALLED LOCATION and point of vantage as a distributing centre that brought the three great transcontinental railways to Camrose. The C. P. R., C. N. R., and G. T. P. have interchanging trackage on every line, and at an early date there will be railroads radiating in seven different directions from Camrose.

UNLIMITED OPPORTUNITIES FOR CAPITAL—Banks and Capitalists show unbounded faith in Camrose by establishing branches there, thus Camrose offers greater combined advantages than many of the larger and older Western Cities for investments of capital and enterprise, and nowhere in Camrose is there such a great opportunity for investment as the unsold portion of Camrose townsite, located as it is in the heart of the town. This property will increase in leaps and bounds, being built up as it is with the best residences in Camrose. So do not lose this opportunity of getting in on the balance.

"There is a tide in the affairs of men which taken at the flood leads on to fortune."

Shakespeare must have intended buying in Camrose when he used these beautiful and true words.

WHEAT BELT AND MIXED FARMING COUNTRY—Surrounding the town of Camrose on all sides are acres and acres of rich farming lands. Probably no town in the west has such a district, so exceptionally fertile to draw from. Camrose is a young town; the district tributary thereto is newly broken and has wonderful room for development. Nature has placed the resources there which guarantee that the Camrose district will support a large and thickly populated community. North, east, south and west smaller towns will bring their trade to Camrose because they can be served more quickly and more cheaply. On account of its unique position Camrose is rapidly becoming one of the principal points in Western Canada, which will feed the empire with grain and cattle.

TO MAKE THIS PROPOSITION DOUBLY PROFITABLE AND INTERESTING, WE ARE HAVING

GUESSING CONTEST

The Conquest of Canaan

ment silently over the tomb upon the pillow, and Ariel saw waveringly, for her eyes suddenly filled, that the candle had been suddenly hand upon Eschew's, which was outside the coverlet.

"It's—it's not," said the old soldier gently—"it's not on—on both sides, is it, Eschew?"

Mr. Arp moved his hand slightly in answer. "It ain't paralysis," he said. "They call it shock and exhaustion, but it's more than that. It's just my time. I've heard the call. We've all been sidin' on this line this long time—and it's broke under me."

"Eschew, Eschew!" remonstrated Peter Bradbury. "You'd ought to talk that-a-way! You only kind of overdone a little—last of the day, too, and—"

"Peter!" interrupted the sick man, with feeble asperity, "did you ever manage to feel me in your life?"

"No, Eschew."

"Well, you ain't feel it now?"

"Two years suddenly lost them—three from Squire Buckalew's eyelids. Despite his hard endeavor to wink them away, and to turn from the bed too late to conceal what had happened."

"There ain't any call to feel bad," said Eschew. "It might have happened any time—in the night, maybe—at my house, and all alone—but here, Alrie Eschew brought me to her own home and takin' care of me. I couldn't ask any better way to go, could I?"

"I don't know what you'd do," answered the colonel, "if you talk about goin' away from us, Eschew. We—"

"We couldn't get along—"

"Well, sir, I'm almost kind of glad to think," Mr. Arp murmured, between short struggles for breath, "that it'll be—"

"quieter—on the—National House corner."

A moment later he called the doctor faintly and asked for a restorative.

"There," he said in a stronger voice and with a gleam of satisfaction in the radiation of his belief that he was about to die, "I was almost gone then. I know!"

He lay panting for a moment, then spoke the name of Joe London.

Joe came quickly to the bedside.

"I want you to shake hands with the colonel and Peter and Buckalew."

"We did," answered the colonel, infinitely surprised and troubled. "We shook hands outside before we came in."

"Do it again," said Eschew. "I want to see you."

And Joe, making shift to smile, was suddenly blinded, so that he could not see the wrinkled hands extended to him and was fain to grope for them.

"God knows why we didn't all take his hand long ago," said Eschew Arp. "I didn't because I was stubborn. I hated to admit that the argument was against me. I acknowledge it now before him and before you and I want the word of it carried!"

"It's all right, Mr. Arp," began Joe tremulously. "You mustn't—"

"Hark to me," the old man's voice lifted higher. "If you'd ever whispered or give back talk or broke out the wrong way it would be different, but you never did. I've watched you, and I know. And you've just gone your own way alone, with the word against you because you got a bad name as a boy, and once we'd given you that, everything you did or didn't do we had to give you a blacker one. Now it's time for you to stand by your soul and body. She told me once I thought a good deal of you. She knew. But I want these three old friends of mine to do it too. I want to be with them, and they'll do it, I tell you. They've even stood up for you against me sometimes, but mostly for the sake of the argument. I reckon but now they must do it when there's more to stand against than just my talk. They saw it all today—the meanest thing I ever knew! I could of stood it all except that? Before they could prevent him he had struggled half upright in bed, lifting a clenched fist at the town beyond the windows. "That, by God, when they got so low down they tried to kill your dog!"

He fell back, choking in Joe's arms, and the physician bent over him, but Eschew was not gone, and Ariel, could hear him whispering again for the restorative. She brought it, and when he had taken it went quickly out of the door to the side yard.

She sat upon a workman's bench under the big trees, hidden from the street shrubbery, and, breathing deeply of the shaded air, began to cry quietly. Through the windows came the quivering voice of the old man, lifted again, insistent, a little querulous, but determined. Responses sounded intermittently from the colonel, from Peter and from Buckalew, and now and then a sorrowful, yet almost humorous protest from Joe; and so she made out that the veteran swore his three comrades to friendship with Joseph London, to lend him their confidence in all matters, to stand by him in weal and woe, to speak only good of him and defend him in the town of Canaan. Thus did Eschew Arp on the verge of parting his life render justice.

The gate creaked, and Ariel saw Peter Eschew approaching through the shrubbery. One of his hands was bandaged, a thin strip of cornplaster crossed his forehead from his left eyebrow to his hair and his thin and agitated face showed several light scratches.

10,000,000 DICKENS

MEMORIAL STAMPS

King Takes First Impressions of Stamps Intended to Raise Centenary Fund

London—The Dickens testimonial stamps, to be sold at a penny each, are being issued with the object of the benefit of the descendants of Charles Dickens, and the idea is that all owners of copies of the novelist's works shall frank them with the stamps.

The first issue runs to one million and a half impressions have been sent to King George by his majesty's own desire. They bear an excellent likeness of Dickens in later life and are inscribed "A tribute to genius," bearing also the figures, 1812-1912, with the novelist's signature at the bottom.

The committee, which numbers among its members such men as Lord Tennyson, the Bishops of Durham and Rochester, Lord Alverstone, Lord Winchester, Sir Lawrence Alma Tadema, Sir E. R. Lush, and several other notable persons in the world's literature and art, hope to be able to issue at least ten million, and is specially anxious to get to the enthusiastic support which has come from America in carrying out the scheme. In fact, it looks as if the sale in America would exceed that in England.

An interesting note made by the committee is to the effect that it expects in Dickens's works still prevailed, and only five per cent. on the published price were paid to the author's representatives they would be in receipt of not less than $25,000 a year, and a five per cent. royalty is only about a quarter of what any successful novelist receives today.

A FOOTBALL HERO.

Dear Mother—As I write you I am lying on a cot.

My foot is full of torture. I would sooner die than not.

I'm just a scrub, dear mother, but I face up to every day.

And try to be a hero all they send me to the hay.

My nose is somewhere in my skull, my teeth are on the side.

I have an ear, as one that's here, and all my scalp is peeled.

Still, for Alma Mater, that I've fought this awful duel.

Please send me fifty mother, for the doctor's getting on.

Dear Ma—I dare your letter. You enclose a measly cent.

How far will that much take me when I'm in my own bed?

I'm playing with the football scrubs. I'm working like a slave.

Another week without more funds will see me in my grave.

Why don't you let my who's seeking joy? What is an S to you?

Please wire me fifty, won't you? I know you won't be sore.

I love my Alma Mater, but I love my mother more.

Mother—I can't believe it! Not another they cent?

This to the boy you said might some day be a president!

You sent me here to college, and you told me when I came.

That I should study long and hard, that I should make a name.

I lie in bed in pain, nursing my ruined nose.

My good right hand is shattered—I'm writing with my left.

Can't stay in college now, my foot! Ball days are done.

Wire me enough to get back home. I am your loving son.

About a year ago I was terribly afflicted with lame back and was so bad I could not even sweep my own floor. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, which I did, and with the greatest benefit. MISSING 17 YEARS IS FOUND ON STAGE

Varied Career of Man Who Invited Surprised Friends to Theater Performance

Cleveland—Emil Jarow, who for nearly seventeen years was thought dead by friends in Wooster, surprised them with the news that he is still in the land of the living. Jarow had never forgotten those who had once rescued and befriended him.

Jarow broke the news of his "return to life" when he sent an invitation to his old residents of Wooster, offering to pay all expenses, to visit him in Cleveland, where he is playing a comedy sketch. The invitation was accepted and Jarow held a reunion.

Jarow, was born in Berlin, and is a brother of George Jarow, sewing machine manufacturer of Chicago. When a boy he started for America to join his brother. On reaching New York he was nearly penniless and decided to go to Chicago on a Pennsylvania freight train. Near Wooster he fell in with tramps, who beat him into unconsciousness, stripped him and threw him from the moving train. Early the next morning Philip Ellerman, the married man, and George Ketter, editor of a paper, found him and provided him with medical attention.

Upon his recovery Jarow was given a home by George Faber, baker. After two years with Faber the boy disappeared. A search proved fruitless, he was finally given up for dead. He drifted into Chicago and went out with Buffalo Bill's show.

One day in Ambrose Park, Brooklyn, during a performance, a British dancer, weighing 400 pounds, dropped dead while he danced. Jarow ran into the arena, picked the man from the horse's back and carried him to the dressing room. Mention of this in the New York papers showed Jarow the possibilities of his strength, and he went on the stage as a strong man.

WOOSTER OF GIRL HAS HER FATHER JAILED

Dominic Galasso Says Irate Parent Beat Him When He Paid Court

New York—As the outcome of a fight with his would-be son-in-law, Nicola Salimone, a cafe keeper of No. 445 East One Hundred and Fifth street, was locked up on a charge of felonious assault made by the young man, who is Dominic Galasso of No. 650 Eagle avenue, the Bronx.

Galasso called on his sweetheart, Miss Loreta Salimone, Friday night, but when her father appeared on the scene he began to upbraid his daughter for going with Galasso. He said he did not want her to go with Galasso, but with a young man he had chosen for her. Loreta seems to prefer Galasso, and said so.

Galasso contended that the girl should have the suitors she desired, and a quarrel resulted. The men walked away from the house still quarrelling.

When they reached Morris avenue Galasso says that Salimone pulled a blackjack from his pocket and, reaching for him by the throat, hit him in the face with the blackjack. Galasso exhibited a broken nose and two badly blacked eyes when he was taken to the emergency. He made a complaint against Salimone at the Bronx Detective Bureau and the cafe keeper was locked up.

Galasso was taken to Leisler Hospital, where Dr. Lieberman treated his injuries.

THE B. M. HYDE CO. OFFER A REMEDY FOR CATARRH. THE MEDICINE COSTS NOTHING IF IT FAILS

When a medicine effects a successful treatment in a very large majority of cases, and when we offer that medicine on our own personal guarantee that it will cost the user nothing if it does not completely relieve his ailment, it is only reasonable that people should believe us, or at least put our claim to practical test. When we take all the risk these are facts which we want the people to substantiate. We want them to try Rexall Muc-Pone, a medicine prepared from a prescription of a physician with whom catarrh was a specialty, and who has a record of thirty years of enviable success in his record.

We receive more good reports about Rexall Muc-Pone than we do of all other catarrh remedies sold in our store, and if more people only knew what a thoroughly dependable remedy Rexall Muc-Pone is, it would be the only catarrh remedy we would have any demand for.

Rexall Muc-Pone is quickly absorbed and by its therapeutic effect tends to disinfect and cleanse the entire mucous membranous tract, to destroy and remove parasites which irritate the mucous tissues, to soothe the irritation and heal the soreness, stop the mucous discharge, build up strong, healthy tissue and relieve the blood and system of diseased matter. Its influence is toward stimulating the mucous cells, aiding digestion and improving nutrition until the whole body vibrates with healthy activity. In a comparatively short time it brings about a noticeable gain in weight, strength, good color and feeling of buoyancy.

We urge you to try Rexall Muc-Pone, beginning a treatment to-day. At any time you are not satisfied simply come and tell us, and we will quickly return your money without question or quibble. We have Rexall Muc-Pone in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Edmonton only at our store—The Rexall Store, A. Archibald, Jasper Ave.

THE WELSH CHOIR.

This is what a leading American musical critic says of the Royal Welsh Ladies' Choir which will appear at the Empire Theatre for one night only, Wednesday, November 23rd: "They have a splendid ensemble. The sections are blended well, the power and verve are continually manifest, and the parts balanced beautifully. It is a powerful aggregation of sopranos, and yet the altos are over outdone, and whenever there is a tracing of counterpoint or response, the parts are heard like a silver thread, always faithfully portrayed. Moreover, the choir is well drilled to accent and precision."

Chance Enquiry Over Telephone Leads to Mother Finding Her Son

Joy is a mild word to express the feelings of Mrs. Howard Bates yesterday morning when a chance telephone message to the freight sheds in touch with her son Arthur whom she had almost given up after a search of two weeks.

Mrs. Bates had requested Mr. Greaves, secretary at the Immigration Hall, to make inquiries for her freight at C. P. R. freight sheds. Mr. Greaves complied and ringing up the C. P. R. gave the name and asked if the freight was in.

"What's the name?" asked the clerk. "Bates, Mrs. Howard Bates, of Emmeline, Minnesota."

"Wait a minute," said the voice at the other end of the phone. "I think we had enquiries for that freight just now."

In another moment came the voice again. "Hello, Mrs. Bates, son Arthur Bates of Inga is here looking for her. He did not know she was in town."

Tears sprang into the old lady's eyes when the message was repeated to her. In an excited way she asked Mr. Greaves to tell her boy where she was, and to come right up.

Street cars were too slow for both boy and mother, but it did not take more than half an hour to bring them together and make their happiness complete.

SUPREME COURT.

In a suit brought by Matthias Cheungy of Morinville, against Matthew and Joseph Steffes, a claim for $1,705 and a counter claim of $1,000 are involved. In 1905 Cheungy entered into partnership with Matthew and Joseph Steffes. The partnership was dissolved in 1906 and the Steffes brothers withdrew as his share account some three thousand dollars, owed by another company, of which the two Steffes were members. On this debt he is at present suing for payment.

The counter claim is of debts owing by Cheungy to the Steffes brothers, and which have at present been unpaid.

The arguments of the defence, who refuse to pay the bill, is that as the account was unfair and they are taking this means of bringing about a fresh one.

comment. They, it is said, had surveyed a part of it, but even they had not done nearly enough.
Now it is the duty of the government to control the resources of the province if the right method was adopted was the opinion given by Mr. Cornwall, but he suggested that before anything was accomplished the people must realize and must know the extent of the wealth of the northern part of the province. At Ottawa there was little faith in this country for production purposes. The farmers who went into the north travelled by the beaten paths and waterways, and did not see the real wealth. It was only those who lived up there and had secured the country that had a proper knowledge.

In the district of Athabasca there was 100,000,000 acres of land, 20 per cent of which was equal to the best and found between Edmonton and the international boundary. There was swamp country, not muskeg, while the remainder was covered by timber or was barren country. The land which in the future would be the most productive was the land now covered by forests.

Mr. Cornwall had considerable emphasis on the fact that resources along the Athabasca River, which he said were obvious for 125 miles. Salt, also, was abundant. At a 900 foot level, there was 85 feet of salt, then 16 feet of sandstone, and then an underlayer of 65 feet salt. Gas and tar springs throughout the country were numerous.

There was untold wealth in grain, in the being of oil, in the finest in Athabasca, while there was considerable gold, copper, and other minerals.

Tell Them First

"I don't think we will ever get our people to take action towards the capturing up of that country," said Mr. Cornwall, "until we can get them interested in what we have up there. Our duty to the province, country, and ourselves, lies in some action on our part to gain control of those resources."

Mr. Cornwall then proceeded to administer a severe criticism of the Ottawa government, and the action in regard to the natural resources of the province. He accused the federal authorities of being the cause of the destruction of one of the greatest natural resources of the north—timber.

"In the past ten years," he said, "what would be sufficient to pay off our debt, has gone up in smoke and steam. Why did this occur right under our noses? No, I am wrong; it could not have occurred right under our noses for we would have smelt the smoke."

As an instance of the ravages by fire in the northern territory, Mr. Cornwall cited an experience he had in company with a number of soldiers, policemen, when they were hemmed in by a forest fire seventy miles in length, and forced to seek refuge in streams, remaining there until the fire burned around them.

He attributed the cause of the numerous forest fires in the north and the untold damage attendant to a lack of a proper fire-lighting staff and adequate facilities for combating the fires, which, he said, was the fault of the Dominion government, especially in the Athabasca district. There were only four fire guards who were on duty but four months of the year were required to be on duty all the year round. The same ignorance was displayed in other branches of natural resources.

Mr. Cornwall closed with a plea that some action be taken so that the province could gain control of the resources so rich and productive, yet ignored and treated so lightly by the federal authorities, for the people and for the benefit of the people of Alberta.

Start Negotiations

Premier Sifton referred to the great interest taken in the question of provincial control of natural resources. It was not a question as to whether the control of the resources of the province should be vested in the province, but it was a question as to the best way in which to secure that control. It was a thing to be attained only by negotiation, which would be carried on in full sympathy with the movement, he stated that the resolution he withdrew on account of the fact that it would be of no assistance.
